Conditional Ratings

A – the rating selected was ML5a. In the Govt or NATO End-Use OGEL, the list of goods that can be exported is limited to only certain goods in ML5a. The Checker will always display these ‘conditional’ ratings and give the user a question to answer to ensure their goods are included in the OGEL

B – in this example, if your items are on the list of eligible goods the answer to the question needs to be ‘Yes’. If ‘No’ was entered, the Checker will inform the user that this OGEL cannot be used for the export (see Page 4)

OGEL Conditions

A – once an OGEL has been selected, the Checker will take users through a series of questions on each condition the OGEL contains. At any stage during this, the user can opt to view a complete list of the conditions and, should they wish, print this out

B – the Checker separates out all the conditions of an OGEL and details them individually. The user is then asked a question to clarify whether they can use the OGEL

C – where the OGEL document contains defined terms, these can be accessed by the user wherever the term appears in a condition. By clicking on the link a text box will appear containing the definition/s

Conditions

This licence does not authorise the export or transfer of items in the case of intangible technology transfers, if the technology has a protective marking RESTRICTED or above unless:

(a) the transmission medium is protected by approved encryption appropriate to the protective marking of data, and
(b) the transferor holds clearance from a government accreditation authority which can be produced to the Compliance Officer

Can you comply with this Condition?

Yes: No:

Advice on technology transfers in intangible form

Conditions
10

Before first using this Licence, an exporter or transferor shall inform the Secretary of State of his intention to do so, specifying his name and the address at which copies of records maintained pursuant to Condition 11 may be inspected

Have you registered to use this licence?

Note: Registration to use OGEL/Goods Checker is NOT the same as registration for an OGEL. If you or your company have not registered to use this licence, read 'Details of Registration' below

Yes: No:

Details of Registration

A

Subject to Condition 12, the exporter or transferor shall maintain the following records in respect of all his exports and transfers of items under this Open General Export Licence:

(a) the date and destination of each;
(b) the name and address of the consignee;
(c) a description of the items exported or transferred;
(d) MOD F680 or F1686 clearance letter or proof of PSI clearance referred to in Condition 2(a) (in the case of CONFIDENTIAL "Goods" or above);
(e) the clearance from a government accreditation authority referred to in Condition 3(b) (in the case of intangible technology transfers where the technology has a protective marking RESTRICTED or above);
(f) all documentation obtained pursuant to Condition 1(1)(c) and any such records shall be maintained for at least six years after the date of the relevant export or transfer and the exporter or transferor shall permit the records to be inspected and copied by any person authorised by the Secretary of State.

OGEL Conditions

A – within the text of a condition, reference may be made to another condition that the OGEL contains. To prevent the user having to manually search for these, the Checker will display a 'pop-up' screen containing the text of the other condition. References to other conditions in the text are always shown in bold, and the pop-up box will appear if the user places their cursor over the bold text

Note – some references can also be made to only part of another condition in the OGEL e.g. condition 5(a)ii. The Checker tool is set up to incorporate this and, in such cases, it only displays that part of the condition in the pop-up box

Unable to comply with the OGEL conditions

If having selected an OGEL, the user provides an answer to any of the questions that shows they cannot comply with the OGEL (this applies to 'Conditional Rating' questions as well), they are informed the selected OGEL cannot be used for the export. The user then has three options:

A – to return to the list of possible OGELs for the export (as in Page 1) so they can consider whether another OGEL may be used

B – to apply for a Standard Individual export licence. By clicking on this, the Checker will automatically take the user to the Export Control Organisation electronic licensing webpage

C – to check to see if your company holds an OIEL
